We are keeping the momentum going.

If you were sitting here at The Women's Fund, you would have no doubt that you could count on women and men to invest, support, and raise up the voices and potential of women and girls. Each time we have invited the community to step up and truly shore up their commitment, you have come through. Last year an anonymous donor made a challenge. If you increased your gift or made a new gift to The Women's Fund, she would match it dollar for dollar, up to $25,000. We are reporting here that again this year, we have met and exceeded the match; in fact, we are showing over a 35 percent rise in new or increased donor gifts.

It isn't just individual donors who are increasing support. This year during the Annual Business Campaign, we saw law firms and accounting firms joining for the first time, expanding their gifts, or providing additional funding around our Keyholder event. As we build up to Keyholder on May 11, new support from the business community for the celebration with Goldie Hawn will allow us to meet our goal to boost our net return on the event. Which, by the way, last year was 60 percent. Why set a fundraising goal? In the last two grant cycles, largely due to the success of Keyholder and the financial responsibility of The Women's Fund during the economic downturn, we have doubled our grantmaking, and we anticipate a significant endowment allocation this year due to the growth in revenue and response from the community.

In this issue of the QIR, we introduce our 2011 Grant Partners. This year we have six new and six proven programs. We are often asked about how we determine who receives funding. Our response demonstrates our core belief in the democratization of philanthropy—if we are funding women and girls, then women and girls should be at the table to help recommend the best social change programs in central Ohio. We want to thank the more than 100 women and high school girls who worked diligently to score and come to consensus. The twelve Grant Partners highlighted here take innovative and creative approaches to solving the deeply entrenched issues facing the most vulnerable women and girls in our community.

As we approach the 10-year anniversary of The Women's Fund, we are taking this time to look at how we support our Grant Partners throughout the year of funding. Please join our Facebook page to learn how you can build the capacity of these Grant Partners on your own or in collaboration with us and other groups. We will be highlighting their programs, making the community aware of their immediate and critical needs, and sharing their events with you so that you can connect directly with their work. The Women's Fund has done the due diligence of funding the most effective programs. You can be assured that your involvement with these organizations will help women and girls reach their full potential.

DONOR PROFILE

NINA DEEP

You have a powerful story to share about the matriarchs in your family. Can you share how they have inspired you?

My grandmother was married at 14 and had six children by the age of 22. Although she was never formally educated, she passed along her simple wisdom to my mother—work hard, achieve your potential, you can do anything. At a time when women in medicine were a rarity, my mother left home at 17 to attend medical school and paved the way for three of her younger siblings to follow in her footsteps.

She emigrated from India to the United States in 1965, newlywed and pregnant. She and my father completed their medical residencies here at a time when there was no such thing as maternity leave—so she used up her two weeks of vacation and went back to work.

I grew up in Dayton, Ohio, living a privileged life of private schools and international travel. Two weeks after I left for college, my father died tragically, leaving our family in financial and emotional crisis. As we all felt our world falling apart, my mom somehow managed to be stronger than ever. She singlehandedly supported me and my siblings in every way: emotionally, financially, and spiritually. At a time when most would be too young to be inspired, she was my hero already.

Sadly, three years later my 23-year-old sister died unexpectedly after a simple appendectomy. To me, at 20 years of age, our family seemed cursed. We struggled, and still struggle today, with the cruel reality of loss. When it didn't seem possible to do more, to be more, my mom persevered, emotionally carrying a broken family with a heavy heart. She encouraged us to finish our educations and pursue our dreams. Over the following four years, she watched proudly as we each in turn graduated from medical school and then each got married. It was because of her love and support that we were able to reach our potential and become who we are today.

From these lessons you learned from your grandmother and mother, what would you like to pass along to other women and girls?

Although each of us has the potential to succeed, we may not always believe that we can. Yet there is no more powerful a force than the belief in oneself.

They say that adversity does not build character, it only reveals it. Your character is built each and every day through hard work, kindness, integrity, and connecting with others.

How do your experiences come to connect you with The Women's Fund?

Most of my coworkers and friends are very active in philanthropy as volunteers. The Women's Fund shares my feelings about the limitless potential of women, especially when they support one another. Seeing my mother struggle through such a difficult time, I was grateful that my grandmother had instilled such a strong sense of self in her children. Her teachings were basic yet profound. The Women's Fund reminds me of my mother and grandmother—empowering women to succeed.

2011 GRANT PARTNERS CREATING A SHIFT

HOW ARE THE GRANTS CHOSEN?

By 100 trained grant readers, an 8-member grants committee and 22 board members. No pet projects, no back room meetings, no secret agendas—just the best in social change programming for women and girls.

Each program is unique, but all exist for the common goal of helping women and girls reach their full potential. How do you measure social change? You measure by creating a shift—five shifts, to be exact:

A SHIFT IN INDIVIDUAL OR COMMUNITY BEHAVIOR

A SHIFT IN DEFINITION OR REFRAMING OF ISSUES

A SHIFT IN CRITICAL MASS OR ENGAGEMENT

A SHIFT IN POLICY

MAINTAINING OR HOLDING THE LINE IN THE FACE OF OPPOSITION

Amethyst, Incorporated Supported Employment Program

A SHIFT IN ENGAGEMENT AND IN POLICY

Supported Employment (SE) provides access to vocational support while promoting economic independence for women recovering from addiction. SE focuses on employers, working to change their outlook on women in recovery. This program also seeks to engage judges and lawmakers so that nonviolent criminal charges may be expunged or reduced for women seeking employment.

CATCO-Phoenix Full STEAM Ahead

A SHIFT IN ENGAGEMENT

This pilot project encourages middle school girls to pursue STEAM careers (science, technology, engineering, arts, and math) using an innovative approach with dance and theater. To determine the success of the program, girls will be tracked for three years to determine if participation in the program has an impact on the courses they take in high school.

CMAA Refugee Services Capital Park Women's Empowerment Project

A SHIFT IN BEHAVIOR AND IN POLICY

Capital Park apartment complex is not a safe place. This program will change that through leadership training for the Somali women who are currently informal leaders, by formalizing their leadership, providing tools and strategies to impact their environment, and supporting them to challenge the current systems that perpetuate violence and vandalism.

Community Refugee & Immigration Services Providing Knowledge/Pointing the Way

A SHIFT IN BEHAVIOR AND IN DEFINITION

Often, immigrant women in violent relationships are isolated by their relationships and language barriers. CRIS uses a grassroots approach to informing immigrant women of their rights under the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). Through education, we see a reversal in the behaviors that have led to a social climate that imposes dependence and abuse on women immigrants.

Doma International Project Green Light

A SHIFT IN BEHAVIOR AND IN DEFINITION

Doma International creates long-term change through education, teaching that human trafficking and prostitution are not victimless crimes. Through education, awareness, and support, the red-light districts of Columbus will become Green Light communities, free of sexual violence.

Girl Scouts of Ohio's Heartland Council, Inc It's Your World: Change It! aMaze Leadership Journey

A SHIFT IN BEHAVIOR

At Columbus City Preparatory Academy for Girls, young girls learn to view themselves in a positive light by eradicating underlying ideas of competition. The program specifically addresses aggression, peer pressure, cliques, gossip, bullying, jealousy, and emotional abuse.

HelpLine of Delaware & Morrow Counties The "Thank Goodness I'm Female" (TGIF) Initiative

A SHIFT IN BEHAVIOR AND IN DEFINITION

Led and developed by teens, the Thank Goodness I'm Female (TGIF) Initiative emphasizes the development of healthy female friendships and peer relationships through open dialogue, skill building, and youth mentoring. It uses art exhibitions, a social-norm campaign, and social networking "YouTube-like" videos to change aggressive attitudes and behaviors among girls.

Mental Health America of Licking County Bridges Out of Poverty Initiative

A SHIFT IN DEFINITION

The present stereotypes about poverty are pervasive throughout our communities. By placing women who are living in poverty "at the table" to develop solutions, we reframe the definition of poverty by investigating the systems in which poverty is promoted.

Planned Parenthood of Central Ohio Peer Education Project

A SHIFT IN ENGAGEMENT

Ten high school girls train as peer educators, developing into informed leaders who then educate 300 to 400 of their female peers about the prevention of unintended pregnancies, sexually transmitted infections, and HIV/AIDS, as well as advocating for changes in government and school policy to encourage women's rights and comprehensive sexual education.

Rwandan Women in Action Refugee Women Transitional Support Program

A SHIFT IN DEFINITION

Rwandan and Burundi women will no longer be viewed as only housewives and mothers, but also as entrepreneurs as they become economically self-sufficient through certification as child care providers.

The Interprofessional Commission of Ohio Ruling Our eXperiences (ROX)

A SHIFT IN REFRAMING ISSUES

Through exposure to female community leaders, increased confidence building, and exploring sensitive topics in a safe space, girls who participate in ROX re-examine traditional gender expectations regarding body image and women's leadership.

The Ohio State University ACCESS Collaborative Program College and High School Aspiring Mothers Partnership for Degrees (CHAMPS)

A SHIFT IN DEFINITION

The CHAMPS program provides promising young, college-aged single mothers the opportunity to develop leadership skills by implementing a college shadow program for expectant or parenting teens.

POVERTY SIMULATION

On November 17, The Women's Fund held a Poverty Simulation sponsored by Fifth Third Bank at the Broad Street Presbyterian Church. At this three-hour event, participants divided into family units and managed their resources throughout four 15-minute-long weeks.

Participants navigated the life experiences for their "profile," which included buying groceries each "week"; paying rent and utilities; and managing doctor appointments, school, and other unexpected events that reflect life in poverty.

The roles of community contacts (landlord, doctor, employer, school, pawn shop attendant, and so forth) were played by women and men who are currently living in or have recently moved out of poverty, and who participated in a grant partner program by Community Properties of Ohio, "Getting Ahead in a Getting By World." (A big shout-out to Lou Seipel for facilitating!)

Kimber Perfect, a Women's Fund board member, reflects about the experience:

In November I participated in the Poverty Simulation exercise, along with more than 70 women. For this exercise, I was a single mother with two school-age children, whose entire world had changed overnight when her husband walked out, leaving only $10 for her and her family. "Ellen Epperman" had no job, and she had to quickly figure out how she was going to feed and house her children. I approached my family's situation last month with the can-do, "pull myself up by my bootstraps" attitude I have had all my life. I immediately mapped out a plan for my family and confidently set out to implement it. My children were encouraged by their mother's positive attitude, given our predicament.

I was astounded that, as the month progressed, I found my family sinking deeper and deeper into poverty. Twenty-six years ago, I personally found myself in a similar situation, where overnight my entire world changed: I had no job, no home, and two school-age children to support and care for. The difference between Kim Perfect and "Ellen Epperman," though, is that I had a safety net. I had a place I could go for a roof over our heads, I had $500 to my name (a significant sum compared to $10), and I had a car. I learned that night that without transportation, you cannot do much to help yourself out of anything.

In my real life, I ended up getting a college degree, I have a wonderfully rewarding career, and my children are the most amazing adults, married with children of their own and doing good things with their lives. "Ellen Epperman" and her two teenage children, who were already on the same path as their mother, all ended up in a homeless shelter.

It is for this purpose that I have come to serve at The Women's Fund—to help fuel economic self-sufficiency for women. I have always believed that life's heaviest burdens fall on women and children. And while my own personal situation only served to reinforce that knowledge, I know that I have been blessed in this world beyond measure. That is not, however, the case for 51 percent of single women with children under five who are living in poverty. After the experience on November 15, I am convinced more than ever that The Fund's priorities are in the right place.

I especially want to thank Fifth Third Bank, the volunteers, Broad Street Presbyterian Church, Gallo's Tap Room, Au Bon Pain, and Louis Seipel for their support in making this event happen. Thanks for all you do to support our work!

FIFTH THIRD BANK
Thank you to Fifth Third Bank for its vision of creating economic self-sufficiency by sponsoring this program.

GBQ ASSOCIATES
ANNUAL BUSINESS CAMPAIGN
PARTNER PROFILE

How did GBQ first become involved in The Women's Fund?

Several years ago, The Women's Fund issued a request for proposals to accounting firms. GBQ submitted a proposal, and Darci Congrove attended a meeting with the staff to discuss the firm's credentials. During the same phone call in which she learned that another firm had won the bid, Darci was asked to lend her accounting skills on a volunteer basis to the Finance Committee. There were several conversations that day at GBQ about how bold the women at The Fund must be to make such a request! Thinking that it might be a good idea to get to know these bold, confident women, Darci joined the Finance Committee and began to learn about The Fund.

Getting involved at The Women's Fund inspires people to spread the word to others.

Darci became a champion of The Fund at GBQ. The work of The Women's Fund aligned well with GBQ's initiatives to get associates connected to the community, and supporting it was something the women there could do as a team. Today, many women at the firm support The Fund. Darci is currently serving on the board, and GBQ has a big presence at Women's Fund events. They bring their clients, their friends, their sisters, and their mothers, because they are proud to be part of an organization that is creating social change for women and girls in central Ohio.

GBQ associates have become involved in a variety of ways at The Women's Fund. What are some of their favorite experiences?

SARA ROBERTSON

Marketing Manager
GBQ Partners

My mother is an extraordinary role model and raised my sisters and me to believe we can do whatever we put our minds to. This isn't the case for all females, but that message is so empowering. Getting involved with The Women's Fund was a no-brainer. From invitation writing and ticket committee to volunteering at Keyholder, my experiences have been all about meeting smart, savvy women and empowering the inner smart, savvy woman in others.

MARY MCVICAR

Tax Manager
GBQ Partners

Every time I participate in a grant reading cycle, I'm reminded of how empowered women can be. Not only are women and girls in central Ohio empowered by the funding they receive, but I am empowered as well by the opportunity to let my voice be heard and to join with other women in the room who are just as passionate about promoting, encouraging, and empowering all women and girls.

REBEKAH SMITH

Director of Financial Advisory Services
GBQ Consulting

I think my fondest memory of being involved with The Women's Fund has been to watch the Ruling Our eXperiences program grow and truly embody what The Women's Fund is all about. Dr. Lisa Hinkelman was talking about the program and how they had first started with just a few girls at one school. Starting out serving less than one dozen girls, ROX has now grown to serve over 600 girls in central Ohio and Cleveland. That is what The Women's Fund and my experience is all about.

Companies have many opportunities to become engaged in nonprofits in the community. Why The Women's Fund and why now?

GBQ's involvement with The Women's Fund has grown over the past five years as we have seen an increase in our associates' passion for the organization. We are sisters, daughters, mothers, friends, and neighbors. Half of the people in our lives are women, and we see the value in investing back into our local community in an efficient, impactful way. What better way to do it than in women? Simply put, our involvement with The Women's Fund makes good business sense. Women are half of the workforce, they make most of the consumer decisions in the household, and women-owned businesses created over 3 trillion dollars in revenue in 2009.

The Women's Fund provides due diligence in funding the most effective programs and evaluates those programs. We know when we invest in The Women's Fund, our donations create social change. The Women's Fund and GBQ want every woman and girl in our community to reach her full potential.

Who would you like to pay tribute to right now?

The women of GBQ pay tribute to the founders of The Women's Fund of Central Ohio, who boldly set an agenda to create social change in our community. In just 10 short years, the organization is doing exactly what they imagined to be possible.

PARTNERSHIP FOR WOMEN CELEBRATING FIVE YEARS

What happens when law and accounting firms join forces with The Women's Fund to strengthen the voices of women and girls? Important conversations take place. Solutions are generated. Change happens.

The bottom line: Women and girls are empowered to reach their full potential.

Since 2006, we have asked accounting and law firms to join us at the table to help create long-term solutions for creating economic self-sufficiency for women, leadership for women, and life skills for girls. And they have answered the call.

Partners and associates have served on committees, volunteered as grant readers, participated in our Poverty Simulation, and attended Lunch & Learns. These women have made a valued impact on our work.

This year we thank our 26 partners for engaging in root-cause solutions for social change for women and girls. In The Women’s Fund tradition, they pay tribute to exceptional women.

////////////////////////////////////

Bailey Cavalieri LLC

Benesch, Friedlander, Coplan & Aronoff LLP
 At Benesch, we pay tribute to the many women in central Ohio who work to empower women and girls in our community. We thank the talented women within our firm who help to provide an organized voice and professional mentoring and social opportunities for the women of the firm. Benesch proudly supports The Women’s Fund of Central Ohio in its mission to provide these opportunities to women and girls across the region.

Calfee, Halter, & Griswold LLP
 Calfee is proud to support The Women’s Fund of Central Ohio in its efforts to mobilize the collective power and passion of women.

Hahn Loeser & Parks LLP
 Hahn Loeser honors everyone who supports the Women’s Fund mission: addressing solutions for social change for all central Ohio women and girls, and empowering women and girls to reach their full potential. We give special thanks to the women leaders with our clients’ organizations and within Hahn Loeser.

Isaac, Brant, Ledman & Teetor LLP

Porter Wright Morris & Arthur LLP
 When we do the best we can, we never know what miracle is wrought in our life, or in the life of another. —Helen Keller

Porter Wright applauds the dedicated women and girls in our community working together to grow their leadership, economic independence, and life skills.

Roetzel & Andress LPA
 Roetzel & Andress salutes The Women’s Fund for its tireless resolve to bring about positive social change for women and girls in central Ohio. We share your vision and honor your efforts by committing ourselves to the enrichment and success of the women and girls in our lives.

Schottenstein Zox & Dunn Co., LPA
 SZD is proud to welcome Deborah Pryce back to Central Ohio and to SZD Whiteboard. We honor Deborah as a selfless leader, community champion, and dedicated mother, whose public service and advocacy for women and girls is inspirational.

When we do the best we can, we never know what miracle is wrought in our life, or in the life of another.

—Helen Keller

*Bricker & Eckler LLP**
 We pay tribute to Karen M. Moore, a partner of Bricker & Eckler LLP, who has been elected president of The American College of Trust and Estate Counsel (ACTEC). She has made substantial contributions to the profession, exhibiting leadership, experience, and abilities worthy of this national recognition by her peers.

Bricker & Eckler has been deeply enriched by the contributions of our female attorneys, many of whom are in leadership positions within our firm, and we pay tribute to each of them for enhancing our communities with their professional careers and public service, and for providing positive role models for women of the future.

*Carpenter Lipps & Leland LLP**
 Carpenter Lipps & Leland is honored to recognize the extraordinary efforts and achievements of the professional women on its staff and among its attorneys who work tirelessly every day to further clients’ interests and uphold standards of excellence in the profession.

*Chester Willcox & Saxbe, LLP**
 Chester Willcox & Saxbe honors and pays tribute to women everywhere who work tirelessly to make this world a better place in which to live, work and thrive.

*Ernst & Young**
 At Ernst & Young, we believe in setting high standards, stretching ourselves, and rising to our full potential. So we’re pleased to pay tribute to the women of Ernst & Young and all the women of central Ohio. These women are reaching new heights and lighting the way with their integrity and professional excellence. We salute you!

*Frost, Brown, Todd, LLC**

*GBQ Partners**

*Jones Day**
 We recognize and honor Jane Shields for her 26 years of being the warm and welcoming face of Jones Day Columbus. As our Recruiting Manager, Jane is always friendly and approachable during the sometimes intimidating process of transitioning from law student to lawyer. Jane’s encouragement and support of our new attorneys has deeply enhanced the office over the years. We greatly value and appreciate Jane’s talent, commitment, and enthusiasm.

*Kegler, Brown, Hill & Ritter**
 The women lawyers of Kegler, Brown, Hill & Ritter salute incoming Chief Justice Maureen O’Connor, a true role model of wisdom, professionalism, and dedication.

*Little Mendelson, P.C.**
 Little Mendelson is pleased to pay tribute to all of the women in central Ohio who are working hard to empower and create opportunities for women and girls in our community. We are proud to support The Women’s Fund in its efforts to bring about positive social change.

*Norman, Jones, Enlow & Co.**
 Norman, Jones, Enlow & Co. and its employee owners are pleased to invest in the success of future generations of women. Women have contributed to the success of NJE by serving as board of directors members and officers as well as mentoring women in the community. Additionally, we want to make this investment in honor of the many women business owners who have contributed to our success by selecting us as their strategic business partner.

*Plante & Moran, PLLC**
 Plante & Moran thanks all of the women who continue to make P&M the best place to work. When you love what you do and who you work with, it is infectious to our teams, clients, family, and community. The women at Plante & Moran offer a balance and diversity that has allowed our team to successfully grow and have fun in the process. P&M Women—YOU ROCK!

*Reminger Co., LPA**
 Reminger Co. supports and thanks all of the women in our firm, in our clients’ organizations, and in our communities. It is our privilege to pay tribute to these women for their visionary leadership, passion, effort, and commitment to succeed in the practice of law and in our communities.

*Schneider Downs**
 Schneider Downs would like to honor and recognize all of the women who have helped to define and create the culture, environment, and community in which we all live, work, and play. We look forward to continually investing in that vision.

*Thompson Hine, LLP**
 Thompson Hine’s Women’s Initiative is proud to recognize and honor one of its very own, Carolyn Flahive. In addition to her excellent legal service to clients, Carolyn exemplifies the important traits of a role model and mentor to all, and in particular, to female attorneys. Carolyn herself lost her mentor, Tom Lodge, this past year, and by honoring Carolyn, we also honor Tom. Carolyn is a lawyer who exemplifies professionalism, excellence, and a dedication to furthering opportunities for women in the law.

*Vorys, Sater, Seymour and Pease LLP**
 Vorys is proud of the women who have been part of the contributions both to our firm’s growth and success and to the Central Ohio community. We know their efforts have led to change for women and girls in our community, and Vorys is proud to be part of that legacy.

////////////////////////////////////

Firms marked with an asterisk have customized their engagement. All have increased their financial investment and others have offered creative resources—whether it’s space for an event, or a relationship with a vendor for in-kind donations. Your business can be engaged in endless ways.

////////////////////////////////////

*Baker Hostetler**
 Baker Hostetler pays tribute to all of the women, both past and present, who have paved the way for women in the legal profession. We would like to honor them by investing in the potential of women and girls in central Ohio.

*Barnes & Thornburg LLP**
 Barnes & Thornburg thanks all of the women who have been a part of establishing our Ohio presence —colleagues, clients, family members, business associates, and friends. We honor them by investing in the success of women of all generations in our community.

*Bott Law Group LLC**
 Bott Law Group recognizes the businesses, industries, and individuals we are proud to call clients. We were grateful for your encouragement as we opened our woman-owned and run law firm, and we are humbled by your continued loyalty and support as we grow. Thank you.

ARE YOU READY TO STRIKE GOLD?

Simply put, women are dynamic by nature. Flip through your contact list. I'll bet you know women who are doctors, teachers, mothers, lawyers, business owners, philanthropists, friends, writers, CEOs, and everything in between. Each of these women probably wears more than one hat, too.

When we started planning Keyholder this year, we wanted to bring someone we could all relate to: someone who has fully embraced the ability of women to be successful at whatever it is that drives them. So, who is this woman?

She is Goldie Hawn. Although most of us know her for her bright career in acting, singing, and writing, she is much more than that.

She is a visionary, a philanthropist. She sends a message of mindfulness: mindfulness of who you are and what you can do for those around you. Her foundation focuses on children, because she recognizes that they are the future and they have limitless potential. All in all, she gets what it means to be a dynamic woman.

Her Hollywood roles cover everything from the quirky girl on Good Morning, World to a woman coming into her own in Private Benjamin, to her Academy Award-winning performance in Cactus Flower. Her book, A Lotus Grows in the Mud, is not so much a tell-all of the Hollywood life, but rather an introspective journey to wisdom and self-fulfillment. She is a businesswoman, a mother, and an inspiration.

How can we count our moments of joy one by one? Isolated from one another? They should accumulate and be worn throughout life like a mantle of wealth in which we can drape ourselves at any given moment.

—Goldie Hawn
